

Press release

SALON DE PROVENCE, France – October 1, 2009

SOLIATIS LAB receives the ISO/IEC 17025 accreditation.

SOLIATIS LAB is proud to announce it has completed with success its ISO/IEC 17025 accreditation process. This accreditation covers the organisation and the technical competencies to ensure quality, traceability and reproducibility of the test results provided by the laboratory.

Denis Manceau, Laboratory Manager at SOLIATIS LAB, said: "The preparation of this accreditation was a long term process involving the whole management and technical team. More than a demand from our customers, we internally considered this accreditation as a necessity to fulfil the level of quality required by a testing laboratory".

Michael Leplatois, General Manager at SOLIATIS, added: "We have now the full legitimacy to provide conformity certificates to our customers. It became essential mainly for the ID market such as ICAO¹ and IAS-ECC² where the demand for conformity is growing fast."

SOLIATIS LAB is specialized in smart object testing such as smart card, epassport, NFC device,... and this accreditation constitutes a major step for international recognition of its activity.

¹ ICAO (International Civil Aviation Organization) is a specialized agency of the United Nations that defines standards for civil aviation that are applied by the international community

² IAS-ECC (Identification Authentication Signature - European Citizen Card) is the standard created by the European Committee for Standardization (CEN) in June 2007 to ensure interoperability of e-Services cards throughout Europe

About SOLIATIS

SOLIATIS is an innovative company created in 2002 which ensures management of important projects starting from the pre-study up to the delivery of finalized projects and/or products always based on the Smart Card technology. SOLIATIS provides training and consulting as well as software development. Another important activity of SOLIATIS is to design test tools dedicated to cards and readers in contact and contactless technologies, with many references among the main actors of this area (chip manufacturers, card providers and reader providers).

For more information about SOLIATIS: www.soliatis.com
Contact: contact@soliatis.com

In 2008, SOLIATIS has created a new activity called SOLIATIS LAB providing a complete set of services to its customers (debug sessions as well as conformity reports). This independent laboratory applies an accredited ISO 17025 quality system - General requirements for the competence of testing and calibration laboratories, covering the organisational processes and technical competencies to ensure quality, traceability and reproducibility of the test results. The conformity reports delivered by SOLIATIS LAB under COFRAC accreditation are internationally recognized thanks to mutual recognition agreements between national accreditation bodies.

For more information about SOLIATIS LAB: www.soliatis-lab.com
Contact : contact-lab@soliatis.com.

Accreditation n° 1-2157
Related tests available on www.cofrac.fr